DEFINITION

1. Whistle blowing - Whistleblowing is the activity of a person, often an employee, revealing information about activity within a private or public organization that is deemed illegal, immoral, illicit, unsafe or fraudulent. Whistleblowers can use a variety of internal or external channels to communicate information or allegations.

Meaning of Whistle Blowing: Whistle blowing is the act of drawing public attention, or the attention of an authority to perceived wrongdoing, misconduct, unethical activity within public, private or third-sector organisations. Corruption, fraud, bullying, health and safety violation, cover-ups and discrimination are common activities highlighted by whistle blowers.

Whistle blowers often face reprisals from their employer, who may suffer reputational damage as a result of the whistle being blown, or from colleagues who may have been involved in the illicit activities. In some cases, reprisals become so severe that they turn into persecution. In some cases, reprisals come from legal channels, particularly if the whistle has been blown for illegitimate reasons.

Protection of whistle blowers is an important focus for the legal system, as is incentivising whistle blowing when there are many reasons stopping employees from doing so.

All employers should adopt a whistleblowing policy that encourages employees to draw attention to wrongdoing or risky behaviour.

In the case of legal action being taken against a company as a result of internal wrongdoing, having and promoting a strong whistleblowing policy may act in part as a legal defense.

2. Whistle blower

A whistle blower is anyone who has and reports insider knowledge of illegal activities occurring in an organization. Whistle blowers can be employees, suppliers, contractors, clients, or any individual who becomes aware of illegal business activities. Whistle blower, an individual who, without authorization, reveals private or classified information about an organization, usually related to wrongdoing or misconduct. Whistle blowers generally state that such actions are motivated by a commitment to the public interest. Although the term was first used to refer to public servants who made known governmental mismanagement, waste, or corruption, it now covers the activity of any employee or officer of a public or private organization who alerts a wider group to setbacks to their interests as a result of waste, corruption, fraud, or profit seeking. Definition of 'Whistle blower'

Definition: A whistle blower is a person, who could be an employee of a company, or a government agency, disclosing information to the public or some higher authority about any wrongdoing, which could be in the form of fraud, corruption, etc.

3.Value spectrum

A spectrum is a condition that is not limited to a specific set of values but can vary, without gaps, across a continuum.

Value Crisis:

- Value crisis is when the practice of members of society starts deviating from the values that they hold dear.
- When there is a general acceptance of corrupt practices and unethical activities, then the society as a whole is in value crisis.
- It creates a new normal of acceptance of dishonesty, lies, and immoral behavior.
- In the contemporary world, there has been a gradual deterioration of moral and ethical moors.
- Things are being justified in terms of ends and opportunities.
- The society, where all the people of that society give importance to values, can be considered as a value-based society.
- Our tradition has regarded the entire human society as one family.
- It has become an unbelievable fact that people dedicate themselves to the welfare of society or well being of the people.
- At present, the values are degrading in society.
- People are considered as one race irrespective of their origin, position, status, economic position, or self. Self-realization and self-actualized were regarded as prime values of life.
- Now the society is being divided on the basis of caste, religion, language, region, etc. the people are becoming more and more selfish with strong personal motives and endanger our society. Selfishness is being replaced by selflessness or sacrifice, violence is replaced by peace, wrong by right, bad by good, etc.
- people are being exploited like anything. Bribery, Immorality, Corruption, etc. are on the increase.
- The present leaders are taking the advantage to protect their own people by violating the law or against the principles of that society by taking the power into their hands.

Hence, the practice of members of society starts deviating from the values they hold dear in a value crisis.
